Henry Stuart's Home-Coming Plans Not Decided On

Should the reported plans of Representative Campbell Bascom Sic materialize, the political contest the Ninth Virginia District will speedily assume national importance. It is announced from Roanoke, where the State Republican headquarters are located, that efforts are being made to induce Ex-President Roosevelt to make a speech at the Republican district convention to be held at Abingdon in July, when Mr. Slemp will be renominated.

The zery fact of Mr. Roosevelt comrenominated.

The "cry fact of Mr. Roosevelt coming to Virginia to encourage the candidacy of a party nominee in one of the nearly 400 districts in the United States, would be an event noted the country over. But beyond this, it would be regarded as an indursement of Mr. Slemp's course in Congress, And Mr. Slemp's course in Congress is regarded as conspicuous only for his arr. Stemp's course in Congress is regarded as conspicuous only for his loyalty to the new discredited practices and policies of Speaker Joseph G. Cannon.

Now it will be remembered that the most strenuous efforts of all the re-porters on the European continent have express himself at Abingdon.

They are also wondering if he will approve Mr. Slemp's course in following the failing fortunes of the Speaker of the House. If he disapproves of Cannonism, it is asked, how can he approve of Mr. Slemp, since they are indissolubly connected?

In these days when, in the opinion of most students of politics, insurgency and Democracy are on the event of triumph, it is regarded as most interesting to see what Mr. Roosevelt would

In this connection, it is remembered that Mr. Slemp has a penchant for in-viting national characters to help in viting national characters to help in his campaigns.

Speaker Cannon himself, and former Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw, are two of the notable figures who have advocated this cause. In view of sundry complications of recent date, it is hardly believed that Mr. Cannon will take part in the Ninth District campaign this year. In the campaign of 1968 Mr. Shaw was conveyed in a special train from Wytheveyed in a special train from Wythe-ville to Bristol, making set specches at these two points and rear platform remarks at all the stops en route.

He claimed that the door was slammed in his face. He tried again the same day and failed.

A few days elapsed, and Miss Petticolas, under the impression that shad been treated with less courtesy in the matter than was due, called on soveral Federal officials to state her case. They were of opinion that it was nothing but a refusal to answer the questions which Congress has ordained lawful and proper.

RICHMOND MAN

Post A to Urge Full Attendance at T. P. A. Convention in Staunton This Week,

Post A, Travelers' Protective Association, will hold a special meeting tonight to line up the delegation which will attend the nineteenth annual convention of the order, which meets in Staunton this week. The local post is entitled to ninety delegates. A strong effort will be made by Post A to agree on a Richmond man for president of the State division, the claim being made that if this is done, with the support pledged from other local organizations in Virginia, the Richmond candidate can easily be elected.

local organizations in Virginia, the Richmond candidate can easily be elected.

Members of Post A most prominently mentioned in connection with the presidency are E. H. Clowes. Hampton Fleming, Clarence Coleman and W. K. Bache, all of whom are faithful work ers for the good of the order. It was said yesterday that Mr. Clowes had the largest number of indorsements here, and outside of Richmond, where there is a strong sentiment that Richmond is entittled to the head office. Post A, therefore, will urge its full delegation to attend the convention, also, with the hope of having the next meeting held in this city in 1914.

Elaborate arrangement have been made for the entertainment of the association in Staunton. C. E. Sydnor, a member of the local post, will entertain the entire outfl at an apple orchard luncheon, the party going out from Staunton in carriages and motor cars.
